

I just wanted to send a message about how much my family opposes any reduction of the no-call protection for homeowners. If future intrusions by telemarketers cannot be controlled, I've considered removing my hard-line phone from the house. I will never do business with any company that makes an unsolicited call to my house.